

31 October 2019

We are excited to bring you the latest issue of our International Products Law Review with insights and updates on all aspects of products law. In this issue, we explore the trustworthiness of AI, a consumer whistleblowing service in France, and a new class action law in Italy.

As ever, we have a wide range of contributors from our market-leading global Products Law practice, bringing you the latest developments in products law from around the world.
