

Kansas Day Care Centers - Child Care Centers: What are the Requirements for First Aid Training for Child Care Providers?

by David A. Wolf

<http://www.woodatter.com/>

Child care centers and day care centers in Kansas are regulated by the Kansas Department of Health and Environment through various laws, rules, and regulations. Pursuant to General Regulations -K.A.R. 28-4-128. Safety Procedures, a Kansas child care center has a duty to train each person / employee who regularly cares for children in first aid. It is important for a child who is injured in a day care center to get immediate attention and help. Having training in first aid along with having the right supplies and equipment are vital for the well being of children in Kansas day care center.

If a child has been injured as a result of negligence, improper supervision, or unsafe equipment or furnishing, a child injury lawyer can answer many questions that arise when dealing with these matters.