

Commercialisation Australia to include IP Costs

Posted on 15/02/2010

The Australian government has launched a new initiative entitled 'Commercialisation Australia' which has been established to assist organisations convert ideas into commercial reality.

Applicants can apply for a grant of up to $50,000 to access specialist advice and skilled services, including intellectual property management. For example the grant can be used to:

- commission an intellectual property landscape report;
- develop an intellectual property protection strategy; and
- develop or review intellectual property licence agreements .

For further details, eligibility criteria and grant information visit Commercialisation Australia.