

Parisian Transcripts 2.0

Friday, March 02, 2012

We had a number of people send us material after our first post without list of deposition transcripts (and various other items) concerning the testimony of the extremely active plaintiffs' side expert, Dr. Suzanne Parisian. We are still awaiting promised materials from certain other folks, who will remain nameless.

One anonymous benefactor sent us a 30-page disclosure list (no transcripts, unfortunately) of Dr. Parisian's appearances in court or at trial prior to early 2010.

Another anonymous benefactor sent us a Westlaw print out containing additional Parisian-related materials. We've added the Westlaw citations, both to new items and to those we've already had. We haven't looked at them all, but we did review some, and we caution that a lot of the Westlaw materials contain extensive omissions and thus might not be particularly helpful. The Westlaw materials also included some of Parisian's expert reports, so we've created a second list – after the first – of those. Those are only on Westlaw; they weren't included in any materials we received.

We've tried to synthesize this material and compile it into a single list. If you thought our prior Parisian post was boring – well this one's just as boring, but even longer. If we have the actual transcript of the testimony, then the item is listed in black, as before, with or without a Westlaw citation. If we don't have any transcript, then we've also listed it, but in red. A red colored entry with a Westlaw cite means we don't have a copy of the transcript, but there's something available on Westlaw.

We still doubt that the list below is complete, and there may be some date typos as well (since one of the lists we used was submitted in litigation) but it's probably as good as anything out there. As before, it's chronological, and we've included what drug or device was involved. Here we go again:
