

CHRO Posts Public Hearing Schedule; Cases Moving Forward

By Daniel Schwartz on February 7th, 2012

As a further sign that things are moving more back to normal (whatever normal is these days), the CHRO has released the public hearings schedule for matters before the agency.

You can view the schedule here.

Most of the calendar consists of status conferences, but if you've had a case that has been pending at the CHRO awaiting a public hearing, expect to receive notice shortly that your case is moving forward.

Additionally, the third human rights referee was named and started today: Michele Mount.

Posted in CHRO & EEOC

This blog/web site is made available by the host/publisher for educational purposes only as well as to give you general information and a general understanding of the law. It is not intended to provide specific legal advice to your individual circumstances or legal questions. You acknowledge that neither your reading of, nor posting on, this blog site establishes an attorney-client relationship between you and the blog/web site host or the law firm, or any of the attorneys with whom, the host is affiliated. This blog/web site should not be used as a substitute for seeking competent legal advice from a licensed professional attorney in your state. Readers of this information should not act upon any information contained on this website without seeking professional counsel. The transmission of confidential information via Internet email is highly discouraged. Per a June 11, 2007 opinion of Connecticut's Statewide Grievance Committee, legal blogs/websites, such as this one, may be deemed an "advertisement" under applicable rules and regulations of Connecticut, and/or the rules and regulations of other jurisdictions.