Criminal cases involving issues of domestic violence and/or assault can be very complex. It is important for anyone accused of a violent crime against another person – such as domestic violence, assault or physical assault – to make sure that they understand the severity of their charges before they appear in court. One of the issues related to crimes involving physical violence is that the violence usually takes place in private. Most of the time, only the abuser and the abused are present. As a result, the testimony of the victim becomes the central element of the prosecutor's case. This is why it is so important to make sure that you protect yourself if the domestic violence allegations against you are false. If you try to dismiss the charges because you feel as though the charges are not valid, you could still suffer potentially serious legal consequences down the road.

Another important tip if you've been accused of domestic violence in Gilbert, AZ is to take some time to learn about the legal issues involved in your case.
